

JACOB HARTVIG SIMONSEN

CEO, Amager Resource Centre (ARC), Denmark

Jacob Simonsen is an experienced Managing Director with a demonstrated history in the environmental services industry. He's been CEO at ARC since August 2018 and used to be CEO of the Danish Waste Association representing municipal waste management companies, including the waste-to-energy plants.

Simonsen is a strong business development professional skilled in sustainable development, waste, corporate social responsibility, environmental and climate issues, and sustainable business. He's focused on contributing the most to the green transition.

He holds a MSc in Business Administration and Commercial Law from Copenhagen Business School as well as an Executive Master of Corporate Communication from Aarhus University.